Wall Tent Care

Minimal care is all that it takes to have your wall tent last for many seasons. Following these simple steps will maintain the quality and performance of your tent year after year.

Care & Maintenance

To ensure the durability and appearance of your new tent, please follow these simple steps:

- Roll flaps and walls to the inside of tent to avoid the collection of water in the folds.
- Keep your tent clean to protect against mildew (see cleaning instruction below).
- Tighten all tent lines. Not so tight that it puts strain on the grommets and touch points, and not so loose that the tent flaps in the wind.
- Promptly repair all tears to avoid further extensive damage.
- Hose down your tent with clean water and dish detergent at least once a month per the cleaning instructions below.
- Completely dry the tent before storage.
- Store away from direct sunlight and moisture. Extended exposure from UV rays and moisture will damage the fabric over time.
- Mice and other rodents may eat this fabric. Take steps to safely repel mice.

Seasoning Instructions

Prior to camp use it is important to season your tents to improve its waterproofing capabilities. Start by wetting down your tent and then let it dry completely. Repeat this process at least twice before use. It's necessary that the seasoning process occurs while the tent is on the frame.

The seasoning process will take 1 or 2 days depending on outside temperature and humidity.

Cleaning Instructions

Clean the surface of your tent frequently to remove the buildup of any dirt, mildew or debris that can stain or alter the finish. Cleaning is also recommended prior to storage, as well as at the beginning and ending of each camp season.

To keep your tent in top condition, we recommend the following:

- Mix one half (1/2) cup of liquid dish detergent with one (1) gallon of lukewarm water. Do not use harsh chemicals or cleaners that could damage the coating and finish on the tent.
- Use a soft brush to clean.
- Rinse thoroughly.
- Dry tent completely before storage or assembly.
